ANNOUNCEMENT

Limited Slots for Training-Workshop on Climate Change Adaptation in Watersheds for Water, Food, and Environmental Security in Southeast Asia
15-18 October 2013
Southeast Asian Regional Center for Graduate Study and Research in Agriculture (SEARCA), College, Los Baños, Laguna, Philippines

The Southeast Asian Regional Center for Graduate Study and Research in Agriculture (SEARCA) and Asia-Pacific Adaptation Network (APAN) are pleased to announce the availability of limited slots for self-supported participation in the “Training-Workshop on Climate Change Adaptation in Watersheds for Water, Food, and Environmental Security in Southeast Asia” on 15-18 October 2013 at SEARCA, Los Baños, Laguna, Philippines.

The training-workshop is intended for Southeast Asian researchers, policy advisers, program planners and decision-makers in government, civil society, and people's and private organizations who are concerned with policy, program development, and initiatives on climate change adaptation toward food and environmental security. It aims to enable these participants to: 1) understand the issues and challenges in watershed management in a changing climate in relation to water, food and environmental security; 2) analyze gaps toward sustainable watersheds in a changing climate for water, food, and environmental security; and 3) draw up an agenda for action towards sustainable watersheds for water, food and environmental security in a changing climate within their work contexts, be it in research, teaching, action programs and practices, and policies.

Interested qualified participants need to have their own support for their international travel, plus USD500 for full board and lodging, airport transfers, fieldtrip support and training-workshop materials, or otherwise coordinate with organizers regarding own or optional cost-saving arrangements for airport transfers, accommodation, and meals.

Qualified participants will be accepted on a first come-first-served basis. Please email your expression of interest for reservation of the limited slots. For more information, please see the attached training-workshop flyer. Inquiries and accomplished application forms should be addressed by or before 30 September 2013 to:
